PARLEY IMPERIAL PROLONGED.

Vote for Wisdom Stag Several Big Issues to Be Thresher Out.

EMPIRE CONSULTATIONS.

Rugby, Yesterday. It is unlikely that the Imperial Conference will be able to complete its work next week. Several constitutional issues involving intricate technical questions still remain to be disposed of, including nationality questions, appeals to Privy Council, and the form of issue of exequature to foreign Consula, in addition to constitutional questions raised in the report of the operation of Dominlions Legislation, while on the economic side decisions by the heads of the delegations are awaited on the various proposals which have been examined in Committee to secure closer inter-Imperial co-operation.

The heads of the delegations will take up the consideration of Starters - Pride of Tsingtao, some of these matters on Monday, but no date has yet been fixed for the plenary session of the Conference. Several reports on less controversial subjects are ready for submission to the heads. There Starters - Armony, Bridge include that of the Committee have assisted the technicians attached to the delegations. The report deals with the units of measurement and with industrial standardisation.

Electrical Standards.

The units in question include vards and nounds as well as electrical standards like ohms and volts, and the report recommends that each Dominion and India should be provided with a refer-Starters Wisdom Stag, King's ence standard of each unit of Colour. and otherwise. The report recommends ro gular and systematic consultation between various parts of the Empire with a view to establishing uniform standard specifications. The issue by each standardising body of a mark or brand to be applied under licence is recommended. The great need is reduction of a variety of sizes, dimensions and immaterial differences in every-day commodities with the object of eliminating waste and reducing the cost of production. - British Wireless

BLACK RACE SUITS.

The First October Newmarket Meeting brought a great reunion racing celebrities. . Princess Mary was missed, as she is still in Yorkshire; Lady Carnarvon looked almost as well in a beige-red tweed as she does in her favourite blue; and Lady Evelyn Beauchamp was in smart black and white.

The Duchess of Newcastle and Mrs. Clayton looked very well in grey, with a good deal of blackin fact, there was a great deal of black worn, and very little navy, blue, or green. Lady Fitzwilliam added black touches to her green

The numerous flecked tweeds certainly make all tones possible for tailored suits; Lady Rosebery ooked charming in a brown-andyellow fleck, but some of the smartest tailored ensembles were in black and white.

HISTORIC FASHIONS.

An interesting item in a clever Bond Street dress display in mail week were house frocks that would look charming in a country house for bridge and dinner-in reality, "period" dresses all representing certain historical celebrities and named after them. Catherine Parr in silver tissue,

Queen Anne lady demure in black velvet and lace, and the Empress Josephine in two fascinating shades of purple, though dignified, were attractively adapted modern needs.

In the same salons were some delightful house-afternoon and morning frocks of a practical order in black and mulberry cloth and crepe de Chine in all the oldworld colours.

NEW NIGHT SHADE.

One of the culminating fashion points of the Autumn dress displays is a new night-time colour. "Just off the black" rightly describes this revival from Napoleonic days.

It is only when seen in a mass of chiffon and lace in deepest plum-brown beside an all-black toilette that one realises what distinctive colour it is. ..

The new shade was one of many successes at W. W. Reville-Terry's dress display in mail week, when mutton has not matured, but one among the audience.

CARPET GADGET.

Various ways of securing carpets and rugs have been tried, and the latest suggestion for a parquet floor to use a special screw. This device consists of a socket which screws down into a small hole bored in the floor, and a nail passing through the carpet and fits snugly into the socket. There is no serious damage to the floor, because when the time comes for the carpet to be long train of net bordered with removed, the hole can be filled with the suede-satin in a true lover's plastic wood and stained to match knot design, this being inserted. the rest of the floor

Sleeves are full of surprises. The effort to bring in the leg-ofmany well-known dressers were does see, in soft fabrics like tulle and lace, occasional puffs at the wrist or elbow. The double captop is pretty for debutantes in chiffon or taffets, but the majority of the dress artis'es find the softer little capes, or deep berthas, arranged to fall limply over the arm, more graceful-and in accordance with a general slimness-a point that the "moderno" will never

A pretty notion for a black afternoon frock is the idea of stripes of gold gauze and black braid forming a pointed collar and deep narrow cuffs. -

BRIDAL BEAUTY.

Possibly one of the most interesting points in the dress parades has been the novel ideas for the season's brides. White is the order of the day, but there are many shades in white,

A gorgeous gown in a very new fabric was shown at a display in Old Bond Street in mail week. The satin was thick and soft, yet appeared like finest suede cloth of rich, creamy surface. Indeed, it might have been mistaken for velvet. This material, cut in princess. form, suggested great dignity combined with slim simplicity.

The neck opening was bordered with a band of diamante; the long moulded sleeves were severely plain. From the shoulders came a embellished with tiny crystals and diamonds.

There is nothing "cheap" about the appearance of the new cotton frocks. But blouses are, perhaps, the pet garments in cotton. There is surprising excellence in the pale coloured lawn blouses which are worn tucked in or as over-blouses. They are well cut and simply made. erhaps the high shoulder yoke is continued to a large, floppy bow, o high neck has a Peter Pan collar fired hem-line and their neck-yokes

China is especially decorative if the rest of the table appointments are chosen to tone. A dinner set of yellow china has groups of old world flowers in blues, pinks and greens. Then, there is a charming "stock" pattern of ivory china, having a slender Greek key pattern in gold around the edge. The modern liking for simplicity is exemplified in a dinner set of plain design, where a coloured rim tones with the neat the expanding principle, have deposy of gaily-tinted, conventional flowers in the centre of each plate.

HANDY "WASH" BAGS:

There is much to be said. favour of the new sponge bags made as ordinary handbags on strong frames. They are far tidier than the old Dorothy bag, and very much is of canvas, hand-painted, or held by straps inside the lid, prettler. Usually the outside cover stitched with mercerised threads, while the rubber lining is divided into many pockets with divisions for tooth paste, sponge, lotion bottles. and so on.

THAT SLIM LOOK.

-It-is-good-news-to-realise that however big our collars and cuffs may be, or whatever new flares and flutes may be ingeniously introduced, we shall still retain a slim sheathed-like look, even in the thickest of cloth, tweed or fur coats. The usual dress under the useful black cloth coat is of black crepella, crepe de Chine, romaine, or satin-charmeuse. Sometimes the thinner fabric of the dress has cloth bands or wool embroidery, and a touch of fur to connect it with the outer garments.

White, again, is still the favourite alliance with black. but almost as gopular, and more cheerful for Winter - is a brilliant dash of colour in the belt or tie. Green, and a minimum minimum minimum vivid blue, pink, or red, all work into a wintry scheme. The colour can again appear in the hat, a cluster of flowers worn on the Quality coat, and in the lining.

ORANGE LILIES.

At one of the smart dress parades in mail week a bride in a cream lace princesse frock had a tulle veil and train bordered with the same lace, a vivid touch of colour being provided by a bouquet of orange tiger lilies.

White gloves and black gloves with white points were cleverly worn by mannequins at this show, especially with black-and-white schemes of velvet and white satin, and black chiffon and old creamy

USEFUL AND BEAUTIFUL.

New and elegant boxes are now used to keep one's shoes clean and tidy. They are often the smartest part of the wardrobe, being covered in bright cretonnes and brocades. The boxes have many divisions so that a number of pairs of shoes are held in place. Of course, the brocade should be chosen to harmonise clasp should go at the back or at with the hangings in the room, or

There is a new, moderately-sized case which is lightly constructed, so that it is not unnecessarily heavy. On one side

NEW CUNARDER.

DECLINE £4,000,000 LLOYD'S

It is disclosed that in spite of the Government's guarantee to assist liner none of the underwriters at Lloyd's has accepted any of the insurance on the vessel, and construction is at a standstill.

Messrs. John Brown and Co., the famous shipbuilders of Clydebank, repaired within two weeks .- Reunear Glasgow, informed the Daily ter. Express that they are "negotiating with the Cunard Line for a new liner contract, but nothing definite has been arranged yet." Inquiries at Lloyd's reveal that dispute is in progress among the underwriters themselves over the ntervention of the Government in the insurance market.

The Board of Trade has agreed "to undertake, at a premlum, such portion as cannot be accommodated by the market in the ordinary manner and at reasonable rates." This is the first time, apart from the four abnormal years of the war, that the Government has undertaken to give assistance in marine insurance.

Four Points. Lloyd's underwriters several points of view on the insurance of this great vessel, which is being designed to win back the blue riband of the Atlantic for Great Britain. They state:

1. That there should be no State interference in the ordinary marine insurance market, which might eventually lead to complete Government control.

That they are not prepared to meet the entire risk, which may amount to £4,000,000 on one ship, because it would mean placing "too many eggs in one basket."

3. That vessels of such size and power are totally uneconomic and would operate for some time at a dead loss, such as the Europe and Bremen, which are largely insured in London.

That such a ship is nothing more than a gigantic advertisement for this country entirely out of proportion to its value.

The situation has been growing more serious with each conference of the marine branch of Lloyd's Underwriters" Association. attitude of some important 'members is that the underwriters should simply take what cover they can comfortably and safely assume, and let the Government handle the remainder. This may mean that the State will find itself responsible for anything up to £3,000,000 of insurance when the new liner starts on her maiden voyage.

Let the Government once get caught out on a risk like that. ciation, "and it will drop its marine insurance guarantees like a hot brick." The attitude taken by the underwriters is severely criticised in 1 some quarters, although their stand has not yet actually led to any definite protests. Announcements of the plans for the ship have been made at intervals by the company since last spring, and after the announcement that the Government would assist in the insurance it was expected that construction work would start in July. While smaller contracts for Morioka Maru, Japanese str., 8,095 various parts of the ship's equipment have been placed, the actual | contract for the construction has not even been awarded.

The inability to effect insurance in the usual channels is understood to be the principal cause of holding back, direct employment for hundreds of men at the shipyards as well as the stimulation of innumerable industries that would supply the construction material. Insurance on a liner if such unprecedented size and speed the ressel will be designed to do more than thirty knots and will be of 75,000 tons presents problems to the underwriters which they have never before encountered. The fact that there is only one ship of such size means that the insurance risk cannot be spread over numerous similar ships, all paying the same heavy premiums and thus "hedging" the liability in case of total loss. Insurance, however must start sledar South well from the date of the beginning of construction, mounting gradually as the ship takes form.

Oh yes, the North Sea, the Irish Sea, and the-er-why of course, the Medytieranean Sea. How. many's that? · And · there's a whole lot more," he added in one breath. After approaching a number of the crew in a spirit of thirst-for-learning, curlosity and disbelief. I was supplied with over a score of names including such as the Baltic. Azov, and Zuyder Seas. A well-known modern writer has given it as his opinion that the seven seas consist of the five oceans, two of which are conveniently divided in half to make seven viz., North and South Atlantic. -North and South Pacific, Indian, Arctic, and Antarctic Oceans. It was naively suggested that these seven oceans contained all the seas. The more I penetrated after truth, the more loggy became the quest. The Seven Seas as a phrase runs smoothly, but that is not all. In this, as in superstition and legend, there is usually some good foundation in fact, would suggest, therefore, that are indebted to the ancients for the "seven seas," for they knew of seven seas only, viz., the Persian Gulf, the Black, Adriatic, Red, in the countries of the Chaldeans,

HAIR-RAISING.

CREEPS AND SHIVERS.

For those of our movie-going ublic who prefer a good, scary, hair-raising mystery drama to a romance, any old day, there is a treat in store at the Queen's Theatre where Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is presenting an adaptation of S.S. Van Dine's popular thriller, "The Bishop Murder Case."

The new all-talking mystery film has all the requisitions for giving standing treatment. its audiences creeps and shivers, including an auspicious opening in which a man is found with an arrow through his heart after which the three men whom you most would avoid lame muscles, spraineasily suspect as being implicated ed. ankles and that tired feeling with, which lets them out.

FOOTBALL BOYCOTT IN ENGLAND.

FRENCH RUGBY

At a general meet-Athletics. ing of the O.U.A.C., held at Vincent's Club under the presidency of H. N. Townend (Brasenose), it was decided to remove the age limit, banning men over the age of 23 from competing in the University sports. The decision has been received with great satisfaction, as the rule had barred practically all Ameriathletes from competing against Cambridge, thus heavily handicapping the Dark Blues.

Billiards: money challenge at billiards is not, ap-

Unfortunately, there do not seem to be many players in a position to take up Reece's challenge.

For many years past Boxing. it has been the ambition of the Amateur Boxing Association to have premises of its very own, and for that purpose a reserve fund amounting to some thousands of pounds has been accumulated bit by bitlargely from the annual championships during the time they have been held at the Royal Albert Hall

The prospect of realisation of the A.B.A.'s ambition has been brought nearer by a legacy out of the estate of the late hon. secretary, Mr. E. C. Hulin, who had been one of the oldest and mostthusiastic spirits in amateur box-

It was Mr. Hulin's wish that the A.B.A. should have a home of its own, and by the terms of his will the residue from his estate, amounting to £522 15s. 9d., was left to the Association, with stock representing £927 2s. To this the Council has decided to add £1,500 and place the whole in a separate account to be called the New Premises Account.

When the glant fish first took the bait the kellick of the boat in which Mr. Scott and his assistant, Harold Borthwick, were seated, was hoisted just in time, for the swordfish immediately commenced its run to sea, and would otherwise have dragged boat and kellick with it, or capsized the boat. It towed the boat for a mile before it surrendered.

"The apparent inferiority Golf. of English players in recent. tournaments," says "Bobby" Jones, "is due to the fact that it now happens that America has had a majority of good golfers over a stretch of years.

"One will have the upper hand for a time, and then the golf tide. fortune is bound to turn."

Jones is a firm believer in professionalism in golf. "Without professionalism," he said, "men would not have the opportunity of making an honest living at golf, and in their stead there would be a great many crooks falsely pretending to be amateurs."

While George Duller, the jockey and racing Motor Racing. motorist, was driving Capt. H. R. S. Birkin's single-seater Bentley on the Brooklands track, at a speed of about 120 miles an hour, a tyre burst.

The car skidded right round on the track, but did not overturn. Duller, showing skill and coolness, managed to pull up in about 100 yards. He was practising at the time for the 500-mile race organised by the British Racing Drivers' Club, which takes place at Brooklands.

THE WORLD OF BOOKS.

£32,000 EDITION.

"Only for Idiots and Speculators."

Mr. Bernard Shaw's complete works are being issued in a limited edition of 1,025 copies—30 volumes at 30 guineas, which means that a total o. £32,287 10s. is being paid for the books by the subscribers. Mr. Shaw, according & an terview with the Observer, said "This edition is only for idiots? and speculators."

Perhaps Mr. Shaw will be bold enough to publish a list of them. In a new auto-biographical preface to the first volume, Mr. Shaw writes his life story with great frankness, from the time when he was in the nursery and painted his bedroom with frescoes of Mephistopheles, and later when he came to London at 20 after being a cashier at 18s. a month, till the period when he wrote novels no publisher would put into print. His Father's Habit..

Explaining his unsocial, and unsociable, outlook when he first came to town, he writes of his father that:

"Unfortunately . . . my father had a habit which eventually closed all doors to him, and consequently to my mother, who could not very well be invited without him. . . . If you asked him to dinner or to a party he was not always quite sober when he arrived, and he was invariably scandalously drunk when he left. We were finally_dropped of the Baptist Union, preaching at Folkestone, took Mr. Shaw to task for his frankness about his father's drinking.

"His reform came too late to ignorant of social routine." Manniers.

. "It would be easy to forgive G.B.S. his manners if he had any worth talking about, but we prefer him without the family skeleton. Why should he exhibit his father's nakedness as an excuse for his own shortcomings?"

To a News-Chronicle reporter who brought this criticism to hi notice, Mr. Shaw replied: "From his point of view I probably have not any manners. A Baptist minister's idea of good manners is probably not my own. I have been perfectly frank about my father. Anyone could find out all Selling at 1,000 Copies A Week.

Mr. Thomas Wolfe," whose recently published "first" novel, "Look Homeward, Angel" (specially selected by the American Book Club), has been selling at the rate of 1,000 copies a week, was born in Ashville, North Carolina, i 1900, and graduated at Harvard in 1923. Mr. Hugh Walpole, who has lately been - pronouncing-in his somewhat pontifical manner-on prospects of American literature, finds genius—a much term—in Mr. Wolfe's novel: "It does what I have for someone longing to do here (in America) it restores poetry to the American scene, and poetry that is not merely contemporary. The real richness of America, its fecundity. colour, vitality, stains deeply these pages." These encomiums are, on the whole, justifiable: there is, indeed, a surprising quality about the book, in spite of a certain immaturity of thought, and a, perhaps, too florid, or too great an exuberance of, style. The author wrote most of his books during a sojourn in Britain, when he was on a lengthy visit to the scenes, not far from London, where his forbears lived, moved and had their being before they migrated to Pennsylvania nearly a hundred

In the preface to "Look Homeward, Angel," Mr. Wolfe emphasises the autobiographical nature of his work, concluding with the following words: "But we are the sum of all the moments of our lives—all that is ours is in them: we cannot escape or conceal lit.
